GRAPPLING WITH MISOGYNY

University of Ottawa chancellor and former governor general Michaëlle Jean and University of Ottawa president Allan Rock hold a press conference on Thursday to announce the establishment of a task force to look at how to combat sexist behaviour and violence against women. The announcement comes in the wake of a scandal involving a vulgar internet chat by students and a sex assault probe of the school's men's hockey team. For more on the story, see page 4. # RCMP investigates ex-Harper aide

Probe. Former senior
PMO adviser Bruce Carson accused of illegal lobbying

The RCMP is probing serious new allegations of illegal lobbying by a former senior adviser to Prime Minister Stephen Harper in connection with his work for a powerful business-funded energy advocacy group in Calgary.

The RCMP alleges after Bruce Carson left the PMO he steadily worked federal Conservative contacts at the topmost levels to influence the development of a new national energy strategy and got handsomely paid for it, contrary to the criminal code and lobbying laws that ban lobbying within five years of holding a public office.

The revelations raise fresh and troubling questions about the access that Carson, a once disbarred lawyer, had to top officials in the Conservative government

Reminder

No charges have been laid and the RCMP's claims have not been tested in court.

without anyone suggesting it might breach the Conservatives' own rules.

"None of them blew the whistle," said NDP ethic critic Charlie Angus. But Harper's parliamentary secretary shrugged off Opposition questions in the Commons Wednesday; first saying Carson is "a private citizen," then claiming the government did refer his activities to federal authorities.

"If this gentleman is found to have broken any laws, he should suffer under the full consequences of the law," said MP Paul Calandra.

In fact, documents show the federal lobbying commissioner initiated in November 2011 her own probe of Carson's questionable lobbying activities for the Canada School of Energy and Environment as well as a business-funded group calling itself the Energy Policy Institute of Canada or EPIC. Karen Shephard finally referred the allegations to the RCMP in July 2012.

The story is laid out in affidavits to obtain court permission to seize Carson's bank records, however no charges have been laid and the RCMP's claims have not been tested in court.

The allegations are entirely separate from another of influence peddling case against Carson.

Carson was charged in 2012 with fraud in connection to allegations he also tried to use his political connections to win federal contracts for water filtration services on native reserves.

That fraud trial was delayed in July due to defence claims Carson is in poor health.

Torstar News Service was unable to reach Carson's lawyer Pat McCann for comment.

Time sensitive. School's initiative not enough: Student representative

A student who sits on the board of governors at the University of Ottawa said a new task force does not go far enough to address sexism on campus.

Anaïs Elboujdaini is spearheading the Independent Initiative Against Rape Culture, which proposes eight measures the University of Ottawa should take to address "rape culture."

The list includes mandatory training regarding sexual harassment for everyone in the university community and creating a women's help centre on campus.

"I needed to speak out, as a student, as a woman," said Elboujdaini, who is completing her masters degree in political science. "I have concerns, not only for the reputation of the university, which is important, but I'm really concerned that women could be harassed and that not be taken seriously."

University of Ottawa president Allan Rock and chancellor Michaëlle Jean announced a new task force on Thursday that's aimed at addressing sexism on campus.

Rock said he's expecting to hear back from the task force by the fall, but Elboujdaini said that's not soon enough.

"We want something for frosh week," she said. "We want something fast and we're concerned that it will take a long time to implement simple things."

Elboujdaini said she's asking people to sign in favour of her recommendations at uofo-lets-talk-about-it.org. She's planning on bringing the petition to a board of governors' meeting in April.

Frank discussion.
Appalling events can be a catalyst for change: Rock

 LUCY SCHOLEY

The president of the University of Ottawa says the school will appoint a task force to look at ways of fighting sexist behaviour and violence against women.

Allan Rock spoke out publicly on Thursday for the first time since two troubling incidents shook the campus.

The university's men's hockey team was suspended Monday amid a police investigation of an alleged sexual assault in Thunder Bay, Ont.

Four student leaders also resigned on the weekend after a private explicit Facebook chat about a female student union leader was made public.

"As appalling as these events and allegations have been, they have also been a catalyst for frank discussion about attitudes and behaviour," said Rock, in a prepared statement.

Rock said the university has struck a task force that will look at how to offer sensitivity training and find ways to reaffirm a culture of respect.

He says it will also study practices which have been successful on other campuses and in other jurisdictions.

The university's chancellor, Michaëlle Jean, said these incidents speak to a bigger societal problem.

"What we were just brutally reminded of this week is the pervasiveness of misogyny, of women-hating, of words and attitudes that contribute to gender and sexual violence and I'd like to say that such incidents are the tip of a systemic iceberg," she said. "They are part of a continuum of violence in our society and in our world. A continuum of violence that extends from locker room talk — where abuse may be spoken in jest — to actual physical violence."

Rock has been criticized for waiting this long to speak out. He said they were planning a Friday press conference, but Thunder Bay police had asked them to hold off.

"Is someone going to suggest that in the 10 days since Monday, the 24th of February, we have been idle?" He said. "I can tell you that we haven't. I have been leading an internal effort that's involved dozens of people in various departments."

"We have not been asleep at the switch," he said.

Thunder Bay police declined interviews.

Gala. Immigrant Women Services celebrates 25 years in the community

Immigrant Women Services Ottawa (IWSO) celebrated its silver jubilee Thursday night on International Women's Day.

The 25th annual IWSO Roses and Candles Gala at the Hellenic Banquet Centre put the spotlight on individuals and organizations who have worked to eliminate violence towards women and help promote diversity in their communities.

IWSO was created in 1988 to help immigrant women and children by providing services like education, public outreach, counselling and crisis support.

"We identified a gap in Ottawa's services — women were coming for immigrant services but there were those who were victims of violence and didn't know where to turn," said Lucy Spencer, executive director of IWSO.

Playing With Fire.

Former hockey superstar Theoren Fleury delivers a message of survival and support to students at Algonquin College

trevor.greenway@metronews.ca

Ten years ago, Theoren Fleury shoved a pistol into his mouth, ready to pull the trigger.

These days, the former NHL superstar spends his time touring the country talking to kids and parents about how to cope with mental health issues. Something saved him.

"I should not be here today," Fleury told a group of students at Algonquin College during his talk, titled Playing With Fire, the same as his bestselling autobiography. "The people I hung out with, the choices I made — I should not be here today."

Fleury took the students on a dark journey through his troubled life: growing up with a family trapped in the throes of substance abuse, his dream of playing hockey in the NHL and the horrible experiences he endured at the hands of his junior hockey coach Graham James, who molested him more than 150 times.

Fleury said he felt ashamed and couldn't deal with his troubled past. He eventually turned to booze and drugs, sinking his hockey career, his relationship with his family and nearly his life.

"Once you cross that line, it's a very long road back," he said.

But Fleury never gave up, quickly realizing he couldn't recover alone. He said he didn't know how to "live on life's terms," so he reached out for help and that's when his life took a positive twist.

Fleury said he hasn't had a drink or consumed drugs since 2005 and started writing his book the following year. He said he had no idea the impact his story could have on other people, but when hundreds of thousands of people reached out to him and said "me too," he knew was on to something.

He calls child abuse the "biggest epidemic on the planet," and now talks to students and parents about just that — talking.

"This stigma around asking for help doesn't mean you are weak," said Fleury. "I am the toughest son of a bitch on the planet, but I can talk about my feelings. If I didn't ask for help, I wouldn't be here today."

Crimea sets vote to join Russia

Future of Ukraine.
West answers Crimea's move with sanctions

Ukraine lurched toward breakup Thursday when lawmakers in Crimea unanimously declared they wanted to join Russia and would put the decision to voters in 10 days — and Russian lawmakers pushed a bill to facilitate a handover.

U.S. President Barack Obama condemned the moves and the West answered with the first real sanctions against Russia.

Speaking from the White House, Obama said any decisions on the future of Crimea, a pro-Russian area of Ukraine,

Proposed referendum

"This is our response to the disorder and lawlessness in Kyiv. We will decide our future ourselves."

Sergei Shuvainikov, member of the Crimea legislature must include the country's new government.

"The proposed referendum on the future of Crimea would violate the constitution and violate international law," Obama said. "We are well beyond the days when borders can be redrawn over the heads of democratic leaders."

Russian President Vladimir Putin's hand was almost certainly behind Thursday's dramatic developments, but it was not clear whether he is aiming for outright annexation, or simply strengthening his hand in talks with the West.

The White House moved to impose financial sanctions and travel restrictions on opponents of Ukraine's new government. The EU also announced limited punitive measures against Putin's government.

Crimea's parliament rammed through what amounted to a declaration of independence from Ukraine, announcing it would let the Crimean people, 60 per cent of whom are ethnic Russian, decide whether they want to become part of their neighbour to the east. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Canada's stance

'A vestige of another century'

Crimea is under "illegal military occupation" and Canada will not recognize its forthcoming referendum on whether to join Russia, Prime Minister Stephen Harper said Thursday.

Foreign Affairs Minister John Baird said it's impossible to organize a meaningful referendum in the 10-day time frame proposed.

He said Canada is deeply concerned about Russia's military actions.

"This is a vestige of another century," he said. "It's a Soviet-style tactic that's unacceptable for a G8 country and unacceptable in 2014. We're going to condemn it in the strongest of terms."

Oil on Lac-Mégantic train was more volatile than documented

New report. Cargo was as flammable as gasoline, says Transportation Safety Board

The Transportation Safety Board says formal lab tests confirm the train that crashed and exploded in Lac-Mégantic, Que., last summer was carrying oil that was more volatile than advertised.

The board says it was actually as flammable as gasoline.

The board took oil samples from nine tank cars that were intact after the crash and subjected them to a rigorous analysis.

The report says the oil from the cars was a Class 3, PG II product, although it had

The samples were consistent with a light, sweet crude oil, with volatility comparable to that of a condensate or gasoline product.

"The large quantities of spilled crude oil, the rapid rate of release and the oil's high volatility and low viscosity were likely the major contributors to the large post-derailment fireball and pool fire," the report said.

The board says the lower flashpoint of the oil on the train explains in part why it ignited so quickly once the tank cars were breached.

The downtown was engulfed in a fireball as thousands of litres of oil exploded.

From 'high risk' to hopeful

International Women's Day. Lawrence Hill, author of The Book of Negroes, writes about his experience volunteering with girls at high risk for sexual assault and HIV exposure

For Metro Canada

As International Women's Day approaches, I wonder how many Hillside High Schools exist in the world. But I would bet good money that there is no Hillside High School like the one I saw in Manzini, Swaziland.

In early February I had travelled to Swaziland as a volunteer to support the work of Crossroads International and its local development partner, the Swaziland Action Group Against Abuse (SWAGAA).

The girls greeted me by singing at the top of their lungs. There were nearly 100 girls crammed into a room with no open windows. Finally, a teacher held up her hand, brought the singing to a halt and asked what was on the girls' minds lately.

The answers came ringing out lucidly and unadorned: Was it appropriate for a high school girl to take up with a sugar daddy? What if they were exposed to HIV and died like their parents? What about teenage pregnancy?

Swaziland has the highest rate of HIV in the world, and young women are the hardest hit of all.

According to a study in 2008, 37 per cent of girls between 15 and 19 have HIV. In Swaziland, one girl in three will be sexually abused before age 18. The wave of sexual violence is so unrelenting that SWAGAA has created a network of "girls' empowerment clubs" to teach girls about their legal rights, issues of sexual reproductive health, and the need to oppose and report abuse.

The day after I visited Hillside High School, I gave a creative writing workshop. Almost every girl in the group of 20 spoke or wrote about sexual assault. One girl began a writing exercise with these words: "Darkness has been my only mentor."

Crossroads International,

a small Canadian NGO I have been supporting as a volunteer for 35 years, directs its development activities to girls and women in various African countries and in Bolivia.

In the case of Swaziland, the girls' empowerment clubs "are saving lives," says SWAGAA executive director Cebile Manzini-Henwood.

"There is urgency in the need to address sexual violence against young girls in my country, to teach them about practices that constitute gender-based violence and provide a safe space for them to report the violations and receive care, love and support."

On the eve of International Women's Day, let's remember girls and women around the world when we are donating from our own pockets and channeling Canadian-led development efforts.

We Day is heading across the pond to its inaugural U.K. event — the first outside of North America — this Friday at Wembley Arena in London. It's expected 12,000 students (including 130 from Canada) and teachers from more than 380 schools will be in attendance ... along with Prince Harry and a number of other celebs.

Each year, EF's Global Citizen Scholarship is awarded to 10 students across Canada who demonstrate a passion for global citizenship. And this year, the winners are heading to London and Berlin to participate in We Day U.K. and EF's Science & Innovation Summit in Berlin.

"What's unique about this event is that we have over 130 students from Canada joining with EF Tours to experience our first international We Day event and share their excitement with students in the U.K. who get to see it for the first time," said Craig Kielburger, international activist and co-founder of Free The Children.

Prerana Gambhir, a Grade 12 student with Fraser Heights Secondary in Surrey, B.C., is one of those 10 scholarship students. Gambhir, 17, is head of her school's global issues club and head delegate for the model UN.

Romeo Tello, a councillor with the City Youth Council of Toronto, is hyped to exchange ideas with other youth at We Day U.K. PHOTOS CONTRIBUTED

This year, the club is focused on women's empowerment; they're fundraising to support two girls' education in Tanzania and using any excess funds they raise to support micro-financing projects for women in developing countries.

As an immigrant to Canada, Gambhir says she realizes the importance of a free education. "I wanted to contribute and do my bit," she said.

Gambhir feels strongly about the topic of sustainability. A lot of people feel they're doing their part just by raising money, she said, "but what you want to do is help (recipients) create a self-sufficient lifestyle."

With We Day U.K., it means getting that message across to an even larger audience.

Gambhir is excited to see education activist Malala Yousafzai at the event. "I've heard her speeches in the UN and her stories are truly moving," she said. She's also excited to see Evanna Lynch, who plays Luna Lovegood in the Harry Potter movies. "I'm a huge Harry Potter fan," she added.

Romeo Tello, a Grade 11 student with Monarch Park Collegiate in Toronto, is also on his way to London on scholarship. Tello, 16, is a councillor with the City Youth Council of Toronto, working with local reps on community issues and campaigns. His efforts have led, for example, to the extension of library hours in his community.

He also works with the school's Free the Children club, Minga. Last year, the club sent a group of students to India to help build a school; students are currently raising funds to build a school in Ecuador.

"I'm one of those more fortunate youth who got to see We Day grow into what it is now," said Tello. "I've been to one of the first We Days in Toronto and now I get to go to the first international one."

Like Gambhir, he's excited to see Yousafzai at We Day U.K.. But he's also hoping the trip will spark ideas through collaboration with like-minded youth — sort of like an informal forum of ideas.

"In my school we're all from the same neighbourhood — the discussion is pretty similar," said Tello. "These are nine other people from different areas of the country and our views will be different, our strategies will be different ... and hopefully some tangible strategies will come out of that."

We Day U.K. 101

- Co-chaired by Holly Branson and Lord Rumi Verjee, We Day U.K. features actress Jennifer Hudson, songstress Ellie Goulding artist Dizzee Rascal, and Malala Yousafzai, the international education activist and co-founder of the Malala Fund.

- Free The Children is one of the world's largest youth-driven charities. So far, it's helped to build more than 650 schools, providing education to 55,000 children, in eight developing countries.

- We Day is free to attend; schools earn their tickets by taking action in local and global communities.

- "We have students coming from all over England, Wales, Scotland, the Isle of Man, Northern Ireland and even the Republic of Ireland," said Craig Kielburger. "The young people in the U.K. are already incredibly creative and engaged in service actions and we can't wait to see the impact the first We Day event will have on them."

In 2010, Hannah Owen went to Rwanda with her dad, actor Clive Owen. She was 13 years old. They were there as guests of Aegis Trust, a British NGO that campaigns to prevent genocide.

It was a life-changing experience. "I had been opened up to the world of Africa ... but I never really had the experience of youth empowerment," she said. It was a trip to Kenya a year later with Me to We — to visit a Free The Children development — that helped her see how youth could make a difference.

"It had the most incredible impact on me," said Owen. "It completely changed my perspective on what is possible."

When she returned home,

Hannah and her sister competed in a chicken and egg race through London to see who would finish first.

she started her own fundraising efforts. A conversation with friends turned into a chicken-and-egg race with her sister through the streets of London (each dressed in a costume) to see who would come first: the chicken or the egg. "It was completely bonkers," she said, adding that they managed to raise $5,900 that went toward education in Kenya. Over the past three years, Owen estimates she's helped to raise about $18,500 for various causes.

She's particularly excited to hear Malala Yousafzai speak at We Day U.K. Of course, she'll also be there to see her dad take the stage.

"He has pushed me and opened the doors to that world," she says of her dad.

As for We Day U.K., Owen believes it's going to have a big impact on British youth.

"It will be a spark for an amazing cloud of positivity around the U.K."

America's top doll, Barbie, finds herself in controversy once again, this time over a business partnership between her manufacturer, Mattel, and the Girl Scouts.

On Thursday, two consumer advocacy groups often critical of corporate advertising tactics — the Campaign for a Commercial Free Childhood and the Center for a New American Dream — criticized Barbie as a flawed role model for little girls and launched a petition drive urging the Girl Scouts of the USA to ship with Mattel, announced last August, includes a Barbie-themed activity book, a website, and a Barbie participation patch — the first Girl Scout uniform patch with corporate sponsorship.

"Holding Barbie, the quintessential fashion doll, up as a role model for Girl Scouts simultaneously sexualizes young girls, idealizes an impossible body type, and undermines the Girl Scouts' vital mission to build 'girls of courage, confidence and character,'" said Susan Linn, director of the Boston-based commercial-free childhood organization.

Enbridge's Line 9 pipeline reversal OK'd

The National Energy Board issued a green light Thursday to energy giant Enbridge's plan to reverse the flow and increase the capacity of a pipeline that has been running between southern Ontario and Montreal for years.

The 141-page decision on the controversial Line 9 comes some four months after the federal regulator held public hearings on the Calgary-based company's proposal.

"The board's decision enables Enbridge to react to market forces and provide benefits to Canadians, while at the same time implementing the project in a safe and environmentally sensitive manner," the NEB said in a statement.

"Enbridge will be permitted to operate all of Line 9 in an eastward direction in order to transport crude oil from Western Canada and the U.S. Bakken region to refineries in Ontario and Quebec."

The approval is subject to a number of conditions, which include Enbridge being required to undertake activities involving pipeline integrity, emergency response and continued consultation with stakeholders and the public. THE CANADIAN PRESS

In case of a spill

The board was not unanimous, however, in the conditions it set out for Enbridge related to financial ability to deal with a spill, with one member saying he would have liked Enbridge to be required to demonstrate that it has "legally enforceable access to financial resources which are and will continue to be adequate to fund any reasonably foreseeable NEB-regulated obligations which arise as a result of a spill."

The company says that to emit a small puff reminiscent of bacon, the user needs an external device that plugs into the headphone jack. The app itself

Metro spoke to designer Emilie Baltz

What considerations are there when matching a foodstuff to a music experience?

Our goal with performance food experiences is to study the relationship between the senses. It is challenging to say there is a 'should' involved in pairing sound with food. Anything can be paired with anything; the interesting piece is the resulting emotion that is created from the mixture. Food is such a subjective, complex experience that each person reacts differently.

What other foods do you think would work well with musical accompaniment?
We tried marzipan, dough, cocktails, sodas and even the rogue jar of peanut butter, which did not work. Seeing as music is a rhythmic experience, the foodstuffs that beg for repetitive actions — like licking — for their ingestion are perfectly suited.

Based on characters from The Rocky and Bullwinkle Show, the movie stars the voice of Modern Family's Ty Burrell as Mr. Peabody, a beagle who is also the world's smartest being. Imagine Family Guy's Brian with less attitude but more PhDs. When his adopted son Sherman (Max Charles) bites schoolmate Penny (Ariel Winter) Peabody tries to smooth things by throwing a dinner for Penny's parents (Stephen Colbert and Leslie Mann). His party plan is almost derailed when Sherman and Penny hijack the WABAC device, a time machine that takes them to ancient Egypt and the Trojan War. Can Mr. Peabody rescue them before Penny's parents notice she's gone and the space-time continuum is irreparably destroyed? Steve Gow sits in for Mark Breslin this week.

Every dog has its day

Mr. Peabody & Sherman. Family flick still cuts clever for the adults in the theatre

Richard: Steve, Mr. Peabody & Sherman lacks the political bent of the original Jay Ward cartoon series, but it is loaded with references from literature, history and popular culture. It's the only kid's movie with an Oedipal joke and I can't imagine a Minion punning. "Marie Antoinette could have kept her head if she had issued an edict to distribute bread to the poor. But you can't have your cake and edict too." Which means it is stuffed with the spirit of Ward, which is a good thing, even if it does veer off path with a sentimental father and son subplot. What did you think?

Steve: I agree 100 per cent, Richard. In fact, by dipping its proverbial toe into that father-son subplot, the film dares to touch on what other family films like Finding Nemo or The Incredibles have done better. Still, the movie's meteoric pace never lingers too long on any facet of the film and its niche truly is the ceaseless nods to historical events. My favourite had to be a clever throwback to Spartacus.

RC: I know the history element sounds dangerously educational for a mainstream kid's flick, but the movie's trips back to ancient Egypt, the Trojan War and Leonardo Da Vinci's studio where they discover the secret of Mona Lisa's smile are really fun. They are made doubly so by great voice work. As the dim witted general Agamemnon, Patrick Warburton really stands out. He started the confident dumb guy routine on Seinfeld (as Elaine's on-and-off boyfriend Puddy) and uses it to hilarious effect here.

SG: And for those who remember the old Bullwinkle series, Ty Burrell does a pretty decent job voicing the movie's canine savant. Even more successful are the comedy's captivating visuals, especially the way director Rob Minkoff works the 3D to capture the measure of epic Trojan battles or travelling through the time-space continuum and not simply for eye-catching sight gags.

RC: The animation is top notch and like the best of Ward's work, Mr. Peabody & Sherman realizes that the material has to work on multi levels, the surface and the satirical. Like The Lego Movie, I think this movie will appeal to kids and adults.

SG: Again, I agree. The movie is a peppy, playful ride through history for all ages. In fact, it probably won't hurt either that most everyone in the audience will barely remember the old Bullwinkle cartoon.

Director makes nod to classic car flicks

Need For Speed. In the age of CGI, stuntman-turned-filmmaker Scott Waugh celebrates the visceral ride

colin.mcneil@metronews.ca

They just don't crash 'em like they used to.

The era of computer-generated characters, green screen fakery and motion capture magic is upon us. Film has gone digital, right down to the cameras. You might say the days of the practical stuntman — who crashed real cars and put his life on the line for a great shot — is dead and gone.

Need for Speed director Scott Waugh would beg to differ. In his movie, "all of it's real."

"The only CGI I'm doing," he says, "is painting out the cameras that I have everywhere."

Waugh, a second generation

Scott Waugh directs Need For Speed, which opens next Friday. CONTRIBUTED stuntman turned director, shot Need for Speed on location in Detroit with the most practical special effects possible. The classic car films of the 1960s and '70s were his inspiration.

"We still quote them," he says. "We quote Bullit, we quote French Connection, we quote Grand Prix, Smokey and the Bandit.

"And that's what we're trying to bring back on this movie.

"All the car driving's for real, we're going the speeds we say we're going and it's really a visceral ride."

Stuntman stuff

"I think a great stuntman has a great respect for fear. Because when you have that respect, you do everything you can to minimize and negate the problems that can come so you are safe. So if you don't have the fear, I think most people actually just get hurt, just not realizing the consequences are high," says Waugh.

But this isn't the '70s, and modern movies often demand more and more action sequences that seem impossible to do in real life. Not a problem for Waugh.

"It's just a matter of engineering it right," he says.

For just one of the film's jaw-dropping car jumps, Waugh and his team spent six months planning and getting the physics just right. For the human beings behind the wheel, it's time well spent.

"When you start travelling at the speeds we're travelling during this film, the consequences are exponential," he says.

But it's not all about the crash bang boom. Waugh knows the importance of the leading man in a good car flick, and likens Need for Speed's star Aaron Paul to the King of Cool himself.

"He's one of the first people I've worked with in his age bracket that actually harnesses the Steve McQueen vibe," says Waugh of Paul.

"Steve had an incredible thing about him. He was dangerous as a person, he was charming, and he was lovable, and he was talented physically. That's a hard four to find in our current actors that are in the 20s age bracket, and he's [Aaron Paul] the only one to me that harnesses those qualities."

If you ask Waugh, the lovable Breaking Bad alumnus has the danger factor and the McQueen charm, but what about the physical part?

"I told him," laughs Waugh, "if he doesn't make it as an actor, he's got a great stunt career ahead of him."

Villeneuve's dark twisted fantasy

Enemy. Actor Jake Gyllenhaal talks about breathing life into Quebec filmmaker's cinematic vision

liz.brown@metronews.ca

In many ways, 2013 was a dark year for Canadian filmmaker Denis Villeneuve and his right-hand actor, Jake Gyllenhaal. At the Toronto International Film Festival, the pair premiered two disparate — but both unsettling — films.

The one that garnered the most attention was the Hugh Jackman-fronted Prisoners, where Gyllenhaal plays the morally upright gumshoe Detective Loki. And while this role pulled plenty of praise for Gyllenhaal, his more difficult turn as an actor came in Villeneuve's second offering at TIFF — the mind-bending Enemy.

The film, based on a book called The Double by Portuguese writer José Saramago, Denis Villeneuve, left, and Jake Gyllenhaal chat on the set of Enemy, which opens on Friday. CONTRIBUTED delves into deep thoughts on doppelgangers. It's a heavy psycho-erotic thriller whose ending refuses to be constrained with a neat bow. Gyllenhaal plays a melancholic Toronto-dwelling history prof who learns there's a D-list actor out in Mississauga who looks exactly like him. The actor is challenged to play two characters against himself when the doubles eventually meet.

"Denis was inspired by the book and was trying to find a really grand metropolis that matched his idea. He felt like Toronto has been shot as other places so often but not very often as itself," says Gyllenhaal, explaining the director's decision to set the story in Canada's largest city — a creative leap from the book.

The air is unsettling as the story unfurls in a grey and desolate Toronto. And as the doppelgangers continue to meet things just get more murky. "It's about the unconscious," Gyllenhaal says of the film. "There's a dream-like nature to it. Dreams are had in the dark and they have this darkness that's really beautiful," he adds.

Enemy is the kind of movie that taunts us to construct meaning from a fever-dream and will leave viewers debating its meaning long after the finale. "I feel like we're all searching for a concrete answer

Canadian Screen Awards

Enemy is nominated for a number of Canadian Screen Awards, including best motion picture, achievement in direction (Denis Villeneuve), performance by an actor in a leading role (Jake Gyllenhaal) and performance by an actress in a supporting role (Sarah Gadon).

to films. We want a structure that is clear and a lot of times we want a resolution that will somehow bring us comfort in a discomforting world," says Gyllenhaal.

But even after this philosophical moment, Gyllenhaal himself can't escape that human desire to put things in order, offering his own interpretation on the tale: "I think it's about a man struggling with committing to a relationship and a marriage. It's the psychological journey, when you're trying to decide the parts of yourself to commit to and the parts of yourself to kill off," he says.

Orphan Black, Degrassi take home hardware

The sci-fi serial Orphan Black heads into this weekend's Canadian Screen Awards with a leading eight trophies already under its belt. The Space smash became the TV leader at an early industry gala that bestowed acting awards to supporting actor Jordan Gavaris (who plays Felix), supporting actress Maria Doyle Kennedy (Mrs. S) and guest performer Natalie Lisinska (Aynsley).

Degrassi collected four awards in the children's or youth categories, including best series, best direction, best writing and best performance for young actor Dylan Everett (Campbell Saunders).

Winners in the marquee film and TV categories will be announced at a star-studded bash in Toronto on Sunday. Martin Short hosts that bash in Toronto. It will be broadcast on CBC-TV.

Gotta be room for Gus on Breaking Bad spin-off

Better Call Saul. Add Giancarlo Esposito to the list of Breaking Bad alumni itching to join the drama's upcoming prequel

Giancarlo Esposito says he believes there's room for his drug kingpin character Gustavo Fring in the hotly anticipated spin-off to Breaking Bad, which centres on the dealings of sleazy lawyer Saul Goodman before he hooks up with meth-maker Walter White.

"I don't know how much room but certainly it takes place pre-Walt so there is that space in that moment of time to have Gustavo realized in that show, it certainly is completely possible," Esposito said in a recent phone interview to promote an appearance at Toronto Comicon this weekend.

Speaking from the set of his current series, Revolution, in Austin, Tex., the veteran actor says he considers the ruthless Fring to be one of the best roles of his career.

and credits Breaking Bad creator Vince Gilligan with the opportunity.

He would love for their TV partnership to continue.

"My people have talked to his people," Esposito says of Gilligan, who is listed as a co-creator on Better Call Saul.

"They're in the writers' room now so they have to formulate exactly what the show is but they've asked if there would be any interest if they were able to figure it out. I always would love to return to them because I think Vince is brilliant at what he does and I love the cast that he put together. To be back with the Breaking Bad family is a very specific and very wonderful way to work."

The Emmy-winning Breaking Bad ended last year after five seasons.

Gilligan has said he'd welcome cameos from Breaking Bad actors in Better Call Saul, which will return Bob Odenkirk to the role of an Albuquerque attorney whose bread-and-butter is defending low-level criminals.

Breaking Bad co-star Aaron Paul, who played Walt's student-turned-sidekick, has said he's game for revisiting Jesse Pinkman and has been in talks about bringing his character on board.

But it isn't clear if there will be room for Breaking Bad star Bryan Cranston, whose science-teacher-turned-dealer Walter White relied on Saul's money-laundering schemes as his empire grew.

One character that has reportedly been confirmed is Saul's trusted private investigator/fixer Mike Ehrmantraut, played by Jonathan Banks. And that may be Gus' avenue into the show.

Fans of Breaking Bad know that Mike also worked as security chief at Los Pollos Hermanos, the chicken chain Gus used to launder his drug spoils, and was an enforcer in Gus's drug operation.

If Gus is ever brought into the show, Esposito says he's confident it would be a natural fit to the overall Breaking Bad story.

Multi-tasker

Esposito, who's been acting for 47 years, says Breaking Bad came at an especially busy time in his career.

- At the same time he worked on the AMC drama, he was on the fantasy series Once Upon a Time and the sitcom Community — with each appealing to radically different audiences.
- He credits that array of roles with helping him land his current heavyweight part as Tom Neville on the sci-fi series Revolution.

"These writers are really good and they have a great way to be able to truthfully bring someone back."

Esposito will be discussing his varied career at Toronto Comicon when it kicks off Friday.

He expects fans will seek him out for his turn in Breaking Bad more than his other roles, and looks forward to seeing — and signing — several Los Pollos Hermanos T-shirts.

"I always have probably as good, or better, a time than they do because I just take a thousand pictures of people who come up to me," he says of fan events.

"They've committed to dress up, to look great, to have fun. There's something to be said about that."

Star Trek. Harlan Ellison's City on the Edge of Forever to be expanded in comic

Harlan Ellison's classic Star Trek tale City on the Edge of Forever is getting its complete, expanded and original adaptation in a five-part comic book series more than four decades after it aired on television.

Ellison said the adaptation — titled Star Trek: Harlan Ellison's City on the Edge of Forever: The Original Teleplay and done in partnership with CBS Consumer Products and San Diego-based IDW Publishing — stays true to his original telling and intent, and also expands what appeared on the television series in 1967 to its full form.

IDW has taken Ellison's script and is doing the series "line by line" with writers Scott and David Tipton and art by J.K. Woodward, along with Chris Ryall, IDW's chief creative officer and editor-in-chief.

"It's a very simple love story between the captain of the Enterprise who goes back through a time portal to save the future because he believes, as Einstein did, that time is a river that flows endlessly through the universe and you cannot step in the same river twice," Ellison said.

But in doing so, history is changed and its effects are far-reaching, negating the Enterprise and its existence. Kirk and Spock, who are trapped in the Depression-era 1930s, have to figure out which rock redirected the stream of time and remove it.

The series, out starting in May, elaborates on their efforts and isn't constrained by television time slots or the original episode.

Ryall noted that the adaptation tells Ellison's story "the way he wanted" visually.

Canada's own super hero. Captain Canuck, the boy scout with superhuman strength, has been reinvisioned for a new generation

life@metronews.ca

When it comes to updating a disco-era comic book character for an action-filled generation, you need to make some crucial changes.

"These days, the whole idea of a superhero in tights doesn't really exist," said Fadi Hakim. "You do need boots, you need armour. You need that sort of thing."

Hakim is one of the creative minds behind the revamped Captain Canuck, a red-and-white clad superhero who first leapt — he doesn't fly but he has superhuman strength — from the comic book pages in 1975.

The series was temporarily shelved in 1976, but was back in stores from 1979 to 1981. A second version of Canuck appeared in 1993, then a third in 2004, but these were both limited runs.

Fast forward a decade, where the highest rated films chronicle the ka-pows, whacks and prak-praks of the X-Men, Justice League and Dark Knight, and the time appeared right for Canuck to reemerge from the Canadian wilderness of forgotten superheroes.

A new five-part web series featuring Canuck wrapped up this week (more are planned), a live-action suit has been unveiled for public appearances, and the film rights have been bought by Minds Eye Entertainment. Fans are even creating their own art based on the characters in the series.

"He is a boy scout that is a little apologetic and tongue in cheek," said Hakim, president of Captain Canuck Inc. and owner of Toronto's Lakeview Restaurant, about this new incarnation.

You see those qualities in the first episode of the web series. Canuck weaves his way through a Canada Day crowd on Parliament Hill in a rush to defuse a bomb. "Sorry, miss," he says to a female fan before interrupting a Platinum Blonde concert to locate the explosive.

Anthology

Resurrecting Nelvana

Captain Canuck isn't the only Canadian superhero emerging from the protective walls of comic book collectors or the dog-eared, twine-tied stacks in musty basements.

Pre-dating Wonder Woman, Nelvana of the North first appeared in comics in 1941 and ran for 31 issues.

The tribal legends about the witch-like daughter of Koliak, King of the Northern Lights, inspired comic creator Adrian Dingle to pen a story about Canada's first female superhero.

CGA Comics' Hope Nicholson and her partner, Rachel Richey, launched a Kickstarter campaign last year to raise money to publish a complete anthology of all the Nelvana comics. Within five days they reached — and then doubled — their goal of $25,000. This spring, the 350-page book will be sent out to the project's crowdfunding.

"She is amazingly drawn, she is an Inuit super goddess, which is something that is really unusual," said

"Exploring Canadian identity is amazing," said Hakim. "It is very simple to play on that dry sense of humour that is almost clichéd, but we Canadians hold that dear, and it is important to us. That is what Captain Canuck is."

It was that representation of Canadian identity that first attracted Hakim to the character. He was six years old when he came across a Canuck comic at the Nicholson. "It is extremely Canadian. She actually, in one issue, arrives on a polar bear into battle, which is where Nelvana animation got its logo of a polar bear."

To create the anthology, they went to about 13 different private and public collections across Canada to scan each page.

They managed to get all of them except for one which they could not find, said Nicholson, who also produced the Canadian superhero documentary Lost Heroes, currently airing on Super Channel. "It was in one private collector's collection but it was too damaged to scan, so I had to go to a reference library yesterday to get a microfiche scan." DEAN LISK

Dixie Flea Market near Toronto Pearson International Airport. The '70s comic followed the adventures of Tom Evans, a secret agent living in a futuristic 1993, who gains supernatural powers after an encounter with extraterrestrials.

"I had my own money, 25 cents, and I bought Captain Canuck No. 1," he said. "I didn't remember reading the story but I do remember getting as many issues as I could."

He was a patriotic character. He was vibrant. And then 'Canuck,' I didn't really know what 'Canuck' meant.

"I was born here, but am first generation, and, you know, singing O Canada in class, and the flag, and to see that in a comic book ... It puts things in perspective."

Hakim went from buying Canuck comics to introducing the character to a new generation after he met Richard Comely, the comic's

Voicing the Captain

In the web series, Captain Canuck is voiced by Kristen Holden-Ried (Lost Girl, The Tudors), with Paul Amos (Lost Girl), Laura Vandervoort (Smallville) and Golden Globe nominee Tatiana Maslany (Orphan Black) also lending their voices to characters. The five episode series can be viewed at captaincanuck.com.

creator. Hakim wanted to use the superhero's likeness on his restaurant's menu and approached Comely to see if he would allow it.

"I took a chance and emailed Richard and I couldn't believe it when he got back to me," said Hakim.

When the license for Captain Canuck became available, Hakim acquired the rights. One of the first people he brought on board to revamp the character was Paul Gardner.

"As a kid, I came from Scotland and I discovered the comic," said Gardner, creative director at Captain Canuck Inc. "I had Captain Britain over there, and they didn't have it here. Then, I saw Captain Canuck on a shelf, picked it up and fell in love with it. My way into Canada was sort of through the comic book."

The first question they asked themselves is what they would keep from the original series. "It went from being a fantasy — the big blue sky — to how do we do this practically so we don't have fans hate us," said Gardner. "It takes a village to raise a child; it's the same as taking a property like this."

While they changed the suit, and switched the gender of the character Blue Fox from male to female, they stuck to the spirit of Captain Canuck as a big boy scout with a conscious.

"We wanted to make this all inclusive, we wanted to make sure we stuck to our female audience and brought a bit more balance to the characters," said Gardner. "There is a big female audience."

"There are no big breasts, there is none of that nonsense," said Hakim. "So far, so great. We are growing it slowly, we are keeping it independent to the point where we have enough of a following we can take it to a bigger audiences."

The man inside the leather

How do you dress Captain Canuck? Not in tights, that's for sure, says David Pea, president of UD Replicas. "There is a lot of 'been there done that' with spandex. They can be convincing and realistic but they can also look cheap," he says.

Pea's Toronto-based company makes motorcycle suit replicas of pop culture costumes, from the Dark Knight and Man of Steel to KISS jackets and Star Wars.

"What the studios do with millions of dollars and massive budgets to create their costumes on films we have to somehow reproduce out of leather for the public," he said.

Late last summer, Pea was approached to create a Captain Canuck suit. The costume was shown for the first time at Thursday's premiere of episode five of the animated series in Toronto.

"In the cartoon, Canuck has big shoulders, no waist and a little head, and they had to figure out how to get all that to work on a real person without it looking silly," says Pea. "It had to be done with human proportions." METRO

The mask

Taken from a life cast, a clay mold was later injected with red-and-white urethane rubber (the same stuff used for car bumpers and tires). Red earpieces were later attached and blue mesh lenses were placed in the eye sockets. "It looks bad-ass," says Pea, adding Canuck wears the mask over a white balaclava.

The maple leafs

There is the large, main maple leaf on the chest and on the back, but maple leafs were also silk-screened on each of the shoulders.

Canuck talk

Captain Canuck spared a few minutes from his crime-fighting crusade to answer a few need-to-know questions. Here is what red and white had to say:

Who is a Canadian hero?

Chris Hadfield sets an amazing example for all young Canadians — and he's one of the only men I know who can fly in space! A close second would be the True Patriot Love organization, which looks after all the men and women who risk their lives in military service.

Who is a zero?

There's a villain named Vex giving a succubus friend of mine a hard time recently. Reminds me I've got to return her Rush CDs...

What superhero would you like to go out with?

I don't have much of a personal life these days, but I did I hear Tessa Virtue's time has freed up recently.

Who is more patriotic, you or Captain America?

Being a patriot is not a contest for either of us. Curling, on the other hand... METRO

The effect

"It doesn't matter what you are built like when you put on our stuff," says Pea. "Even if our suits are too big on you, it naturally looks skin tight because of the muscle-wrapping design we have done. He is going to look like a tank. It is going to look like he has zero body fat."

The muscles

The Captain's shoulders, biceps, triceps, thighs and six-pack (more like eight-pack) were sculpted out of motorcycle-grade foam-body armour. The leather was then glued to the muscles and worked into the creases to make the suit look skin tight. It took more than a month to complete this phase.

The fabrics

The jackets and pants are made from a white heavy-grained Napa leather and two types of red suede. There is darker red suede for the details and a brighter red covered in silicone hexagon print. "It is a 3D-raised print and you can feel it with your finger when you run it across it. That was a nightmare to do, I am not going to lie," says Pea. "The philosophy of the character had to fit. He is a Canadian hero, so the fact it is made of something a little sturdier than spandex makes sense with our weather."

The boots

Also custom made, the knee-high boots are deep red with white trim. Snap buckles on the sides allow Canuck to pull them on. "These are the sexiest and coolest boots we have ever made and they scream Canada. There is no mistaking them for anyone but Captain Canuck." For the record, Canuck wears a size 11.

A brief history of comics

It's time to stop thinking 'comics' when you hear the words 'Canada' and 'comics.'

Here is a quick sampling of some of our illustrious illustrated past and present:

Johnny Canuck

Created as a political cartoon in the 1800s, this national personification was Canada's answer to Great Britain's John Bull and the U.S.'s Uncle Sam. Just like Barbie, Canuck was depicted as everything from a soldier to a "habitant" and a lumberjack — which is the basis for the Vancouver Canuck's logo.

Superman

We've all seen the "It will never fly" heritage moment; in 1933, Jerry Siegel and his Canadian cousin Joe Shuster created the building-leaping Man of Steel. Some of the original elements in the strip, like the name of the newspaper Clark Kent worked at, were inspired by Shuster's Toronto upbringing.

Golden Age of comics

When the War Exchange Conservation Act banned the import of luxury goods from the United States — yes, comics included — in the 1940s, a Golden Age of comics was started in Canada. Johnny Canuck was updated and new characters, like Nelvana of the Northern Lights, were introduced.

X-Men

Introduced in 1963, the popular comic series about humans with mutant powers had storylines take place in Canada — including how Alberta-born Wolverine had his skeleton bonded with Adamantium. The film series was partially shot in Canada, with Canuck actors portraying some of the key characters. Among them are Halifax's Ellen Page as Kitty Pryde, Shawn Ashmore as Iceman, and Canadian-born Anna Paquin as Rogue.

Alpha Flight and Northstar

First appearing in a 1979 edition of Uncanny X-Men, Alpha Flight was an all-Canadian superhero team that tried to capture Wolverine and bring him back to Canada. The team is made up of French, English and First Nation characters, and was spun-off into its own series. One ember of Alpha Flight, Northstar — Montreal-born Jean-Paul Beaubier — was one of the first openly gay comic book characters, and even married his partner, Kyle Jinadu, in 2012.

Tom McFarlane

A Calgary native, McFarlane worked on a number of famous comics in the '80s and '90s before creating his own character, the anti-hero Spawn.

Graphic novels

In recent years, Canadian cartoonists like Seth (Palookaville), Chester Brown (Louis Riel, Paying for It) and Bryan Lee O'Malley (the Scott Pilgrim series) have received acclaim for their graphic novels. METRO

Time to summon his Inner Ninja: Classified co-hosts Junos on the fly

Winging it. East Coast rapper admits he hasn't rehearsed much, but thinks things might turn out better that way

After performing at two of the last four Juno Awards, East Coast rapper Classified was pretty sure he was going to have to take this year off.

The 36-year-old has a lengthy Canadian tour on both sides of this year's gala, to be held at Winnipeg's MTS Centre. Sure, he fortuitously has one night off and it's the same evening as the March 30 gala, but when Juno organizers reached out to him roughly two weeks ago about co-hosting the show with fellow nominees Serena Ryder and Johnny Reid, he was nearly certain he wasn't going to be able to do it.

Classified appears at the Juno Awards in Ottawa back in 2012. This year, he's accepted a last-minute gig as a co-host.

be better for me," he said. "Because I don't know about this hosting stuff. I don't know how good I am at hosting. I make music. But I think it'll be fun."

He'll have help, of course. And it's the first time in recent memory the Junos have opted for a host-by-committee approach.

The event has recently been led by such hosts as crooner Michael Bublé, Toronto rap royalty Drake and hammy Star Trek alumnus William Shatner, while starry hosts of Junos past include Shania Twain, Nelly Furtado and Alanis Morissette.

For their part, Reid, Ryder and Classified have carved out significant Juno success in recent years. The trio of platinum-selling artists has collected 35 career Juno nominations and eight wins, while Ryder is one of this year's marquee nominees with five nods. Montreal's Arcade Fire leads with six nominations.

Classified is a two-time nominee this year after securing his first win last year, for rap recording of the year for his aforementioned multi-platinum David Myles collaboration Inner Ninja. They even performed the tune at last year's ceremony.

Oddly, the same song is nominated again this time out, but for single of the year.

Double-dips like that are possible because there's always a small overlap between Junos eligibility periods, and Inner Ninja was serendipitously released during that grey area.

Still, even Classified — whose real name is Luke Boyd — admits he was a little mystified at first.

"It's kind of weird. Even when I found out, I was like, 'How the hell did that happen?'" he said with a laugh. "Basically, Inner Ninja was only out for a month or two last year when the Junos happened, so it did a little bit, but it didn't do half of what it's done over the year."

"It went on to sell a half a million copies and they just couldn't ignore that. 'OK, this is the biggest-selling Canadian song last year, and we have to nominate it in more than just the rap categories.' ... (But) it kind of threw me off guard too."

He'll open the show with a joint performance with Serena Ryder combining two of their songs and he says they'd actually bandied about ideas for a collaboration even before the Junos co-hosting gig came up.

Otherwise, what can viewers expect to see from Classified as Junos host?

"This stuff is fun for me," he said. "This shouldn't be work." THE CANADIAN PRESS

One isn't always the loneliest number

All by myself. No longer a duo, Trust's Robert Alfons breaks new musical ground on sophomore effort

Two years ago, Trust's Robert Alfons both released the Toronto electro-goth duo's debut TRST and promptly became a solo act with the departure of founding member Maya Postepski.

Although he says now he wasn't surprised by Postepski leaving the band to focus on her role in Austra, the timing nonetheless seemed inopportune.

Trust had introduced itself to acclaim — including a Juno Award nomination and positive notices from Pitchfork, NME and the Guardian — and the task of crafting a worthy follow-up now fell to Alfons alone.

But Alfons insists the experience of making the just-released Joyland wasn't drastically different from making the first album.

"There's definitely an added

"The hardest part about not having a collaborator is you just have to edit your own work and you have to be really firm about what direction to go. I think that's the biggest change.

"(But) I always question myself. Constantly. It's good. It keeps me humble. It makes the work I end up doing more thought out and I'm not just throwing ideas out."

Even if the creative process was only a "little different" for Alfons, the resultant record switches things up by adding a more dramatic flair.

Mostly, Alfons has opened the blinds. Where TRST was resolutely gloomy — if filtered in stylish monochrome — Joyland finds Alfons brightening the room.

The neon synths of Geryon, the euphoric chorus of highlight track Capitol, or the galloping verses in Peer Pressure might have all sounded out of place on Trust's unwaveringly focused debut. In fact, some songs — like the sugary title track — were written before TRST even came out, but Alfons knew at the time that they wouldn't fit on the debut effort.

"This record is a lot more playful," he agreed. "I felt allowed to do those sort of things."

"There's certain ideas I didn't allow myself to discover on the first time, to indulge myself in," he added.

He felt similarly freer this time around to continue to push the already prodigious range of his unique voice, capable of segueing from the alien falsetto of the title track to the flinty monotone murmuring on Geryon.

"I think I tried new things. I think some of it sounds different. That's confusing for people. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Long Island Medium. Theresa Caputo talks season 5, contacting the other side

Theresa Caputo, the woman better known to many as the Long Island Medium, is back on Sunday night with new episodes of her hit series. In Long Island Medium: On the Road, Caputo travels the U.S., surprising people with readings about their deceased loved ones (she even does one at a prison). But the drama also unfolds closer to home, with Caputo learning of her daughter's desire to try pole dancing and deciding to — possibly — change up her famous hairdo. The medium is so busy, we couldn't even get her on the phone for an interview, but she did find some time to respond to our questions via email.

Caputo returns Sunday night for a fifth season of Long Island Medium. TLC burdens they might be carrying.

What are some of your favourite moments you've had reading people?

I feel that every reading is special and unique and has its own amazing moment. The most amazing moment for me in every reading is watching the transformation from sadness, grief and sorrow to happiness, joy and laughter (because after the loss of a loved one we tend to forget the happy times).

Is it ever frightening when you're doing a reading?

No. I am never frightened because I only asked for the highest good of all concerned and positive messages.

What do you say to those who are skeptical of your abilities?

Listen, everyone is entitled to their own beliefs, but this isn't about me. This is about spirit validating to each and every one of us that there truly is more to life than just here in the physical world, and that they are still here with us just in a different way.

What can we look forward to this season? Is there really a change to your signature hairstyle?

You will just have to wait and see on March 9 on TLC. LOL! Change is in the eye of the beholder.

This game won't play without an Xbox Live subscription and will restrict you to playing just with friends online, not on your couch. These are frustrating demands for an otherwise fun time. You run and shoot, either together to protect a garden or against each other in teams. The fun is in unlocking zany upgrades such as jet packs, drones, and disco zombies. Things really do become "craaazy" while somehow remaining balanced. That's until EA's servers drop your session, turning what should be a fantastic experience into a problematic one. KRIS ABEL

Listen in as Soundgarden works out how this future single from 1994's Superunknown should sound. Expect more material like this with the album's 20th anniversary reissue on June 3.

A little old, a little new, and a tongue-twister that will leave you speechless.

TV/Superfood

Speaking of how things were back in the day, this brand new track from the U.K.'s Superfood would not sound out of place if it had been released in 1994 at the height of Britpop craziness. Interesting how things have come full circle, isn't it?

Lambert will rock you on Queen's 19-date U.S. tour

Adam Lambert has never paid attention to the haters, and he won't start now as the lead singer for the rock band Queen on their upcoming summer tour.

"You just can't focus on that crap, especially in today's day and age, the Internet, and everybody has an opinion and a comment. That's not why we do this," Lambert said.

Lambert first performed with Queen in 2009 when he was a contestant on American Idol, where he placed second. The band and Lambert have since performed together, including last year's iHeartRadio Music Festival in Las Vegas and a European tour in 2012.

This summer's 19-date U.S. tour kicks off June 19 in Chicago. It wraps up July 20 in Washington, D.C. Tickets are scheduled to go on sale Friday.

O'Neal hopes everybody will be Shaq Fu funding

Video game. Hoops superstar crowd-funds to revive original that was a little bit frightening

Shaq wants to be back in a video game.

Shaquille O'Neal says he's seeking redemption for Shaq Fu, his infamous fighting game originally released in 1994 that's now considered to be among the worst games ever made. The four-time NBA champion is launching a crowd-funding campaign to create a Shaq Fu follow-up titled Shaq Fu: A Legend Reborn.

In return, backers could receive anything from a pair of autographed size-22 sneakers to a pick-up basketball game and lunch with Shaq, depending on how much they donate.

"The old Shaq Fu was a 'Ha, ha, ha,'" said O'Neal in a telephone interview this week. "This will not be a 'Ha, ha, ha.'"

In the original Shaq Fu, O'Neal's character stumbles across a kung fu dojo while taking a break from playing a charity basketball game in Tokyo. He discovers a portal inside to another dimension where he engages in Mortal Kombat-like battles with such characters as an evil mummy, voodoo priestess and cyborg police officer.

The game was derided by Shaq fans for its cheesy story, wonky controls and blatant attempt to cash in on O'Neal's superstar status. Shaq Fu prompted one group of gamers to create the site ShaqFu.com and post photos and videos of fans destroying copies of Shaq Fu in unusual ways.

"I don't think it was the worst," said O'Neal. "When you talk about the worst, you've got to talk about sales. I actually sold a lot of games, but when I did the first Shaq Fu, that was at the end of analog right before digital came out. It wasn't a bad game. It wasn't a good game, but it wasn't awful."

Unlike the original Shaq Fu released by Electronic Arts, Shaq Fu: A Legend Reborn will be a beat-'em-up game created by Big Deez Productions in the style of Streets of Rage. The studio said A Legend Reborn will feature Shaq taking on hordes of enemies with hundreds of different moves, as well as melee weapons, in various levels. The game's soundtrack will be created by Steve Molitz and feature remixed renditions of Shaq songs.

"The graphics, animation and storyline are definitely going to be top of the line," said O'Neal.

Utilizing crowd-funding services such as Indiegogo and Kickstarter has become an increasingly popular method for game developers to fund new titles. Kickstarter said earlier this week that more money has been pledged to game projects than any other category since the site launched in 2009.

However, that's typically for small indie or niche game-makers. Why is a multimillionaire like O'Neal asking fans to open their wallets to resurrect Shaq Fu instead of simply coming up with the cash himself?

"That's just the new way of doing business," said O'Neal, who retired from the NBA in 2011. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

What a donation to the game will get you

Shaq Fu funders who donate $15 on the game's Indiegogo site will receive a copy of the game, while those who donate big bucks will be granted various prizes and opportunities, such as:

- $400 for admission to a

Shaq-Fu launch party; $600 for O'Neal to record an outgoing voice mail message; $3,000 for a size 22 sneaker signed by O'Neal; $15,000 for lunch and a pick-up basketball game at one of O'Neal's houses.

A banner day for Bieber: Police arrest sleeping fan, and release urine test vid

Police in suburban Atlanta arrested a woman they say was found sleeping in a bedroom at a home rented by Justin Bieber. Police say 23-year-old Qianying Zhao was found at the home Wednesday.

She told officers she had come to attend Bieber's birthday party and entered the unoccupied home through an unlocked door. But police say Bieber's party was earlier in the week at another location. She told officers she was Bieber's friend, but investigators believe she's one of millions of fans who follow him on Twitter. She faces a charge of criminal trespass.

Meanwhile, a Miami police video of Justin Bieber giving a urine sample for a drug test after his arrest on driving under the influence and other charges was released Thursday, with sensitive portions blacked out as ordered by a judge.

The clips show the 20-year-old singer standing behind a low partition to provide the sample. A black box is imposed over his lower half to conceal any glimpse of his genitalia.

JLaw gets off Oscar-free and couldn't be happier

Jennifer Lawrence went home empty-handed from the Oscars last weekend, but apparently that's just fine as far as she's concerned.

"Jennifer said she was so relieved she didn't win because she didn't want to go through what Anne Hathaway experienced. She's very aware that the backlash is already coming anyway," a source tells Radar Online. "She was sort of joking because her and Anne are actually friends, but she just knew that if she won the Oscar again it'd be like a target on her back."

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

The Word

You've Gotham be kidding—Spidey star kills Batkid honour?

MELINDA TAUB

Metro World News

Did Andrew Garfield refuse to present with Batkid at the Oscars?

If there is any truth to this rumour, Andrew Garfield may have pole vaulted past Justin Bieber and Shia LaBeouf to take the prize for most unlikable celebrity of the year. Shia just screams at Alec Baldwin, who can probably take it; Andrew, rumour has it, broke the heart of a little boy who survived cancer.

Garfield was scheduled to appear at the Oscars on Sunday with Batkid, the little boy with cancer for whom San Francisco transformed into Gotham for a day. The Spiderman star was to take part in an official ceremony to name Batkid an official superhero. However, Garfield apparently didn't like his lines and wanted to change them.

"Garfield refused to go by the script. He came up with his own lines. The producers felt that Garfield's (rewrites) were not appropriate. Garfield had a tantrum. He stormed off. Miles and his family, who were at the rehearsal, were devastated," a source told Page Six.

Producers decided to cut the Batkid segment from the show and sent Miles and his family to Disneyland instead — which, for a California kid, may not have been much of a thrill. I really hope Garfield's jerkishness is just a rumor, but even if he was a huge diva, it's not just him — this reflects terribly on everyone involved. Garfield, of course, comes off as a real jerk, but what would possess the Oscar producers to put such pressure on a small child in the first place?

Simon Cowell

Fatherhood brings out Cowell's soother side

While the first baby might have caught Simon Cowell somewhat off-guard, the "X Factor" boss is ready for more now that his son, Eric, has been born. "I was born to be a dad. I wouldn't rule out (more children)," he tells Extra. "I had a brother when I was younger, so I kind of think it's cool to have two or three." And the dynamic of having a newborn at home with girlfriend Lauren Silverman hasn't been exactly what he was expecting: "Lauren's actually been crying more than Eric, so I've had to put one of those pacifiers in her, which she likes," he jokes. "Has to be fed every three hours, otherwise she gets a little bit grumpy, and Eric's absolutely fine."

Lance's Olsen twin romance subject of tell-all

Lance Armstrong was reportedly advised to ditch Ashley Olsen when the pair briefly dated back in 2007, according to new Armstrong tell-all book Cycle of Lies. John Korioth, head of Armstrong's Livestrong Foundation, "warned the 36-year-old father of three that his May-December romance could damage his cancer work," Julie Macur writes in the book. "Whoa, dude, bad idea," Korioth said. "You've got to put a stop to this right now." Armstrong apparently didn't appreciate the relationship advice. "She's 21," he reportedly responded.

"F— you." But the relationship fizzled out after a few months anyway, with Armstrong moving on to Kate Hudson.

Wine warms up to soup

LIQUID ASSETS

liquidassets@eastlink.ca

Not every culinary creation was designed with wine in mind. Take soup for example.

The perennial meal starter has no one flavour profile. Hundreds of different recipes exist, so anointing a single wine to lord over them all is impossible.

Oh, and did I mention soup is mostly liquid? Wine doesn't play well with like-minded matter. Its idea of a perfect marriage is something solid that it can wrap its fruit, acid and, in the case of a red, tannins around.

That said, some soup styles are more wine friendly than others. Just look to the fundamentals of their foundation.

Those with texture are accommodating and today's veg-based recipe has weight and stability, which gives it a level of solidity wines find appealing. I like low acid reds with this veggie-palooza.

Try a bright New World

Merlot, a juicy French Beaujolais or a plump New Zealand Pinot Noir like Villa Maria's 2012 Private Bin Pinot Noir ($19.95 - $24.99) — a silky blend of cherry and strawberry that checks all the right boxes. PRICES REFLECT RANGE ACROSS COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

With cold weather still gripping the nation, a steaming bowl of soup is sure to warm you up. Bestselling Australian chef Donna Hay shows us how, with this recipe from her cookbook Fast, Fresh, Simple.

INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S DAY

Weekend, March 7-9, 2014

To mark International Women's Day on Saturday, focus on ways you can help guide your daughters along the path to becoming self-assured, resilient women. WARREN GOLDSWAIN/SHUTTERSTOCK

Building a strong foundation

MICHELLE WILLIAMS
For Metro

Canada's theme for International Women's Day 2014 on Saturday is Strong Women, Strong Canada. So what could be more fitting than to focus on ways we can help guide our daughters along the path to becoming self-assured, resilient women?

Beth Malcolm, director of the Girls' Fund for the Canadian Women's Foundation, shares her advice for building strong and confident girls.

1 Talk to your daughter. It's important to maintain open dialogue. Discuss movies, music videos, current events, what's going on in her life, and listen to what she has to say. Hear her opinions, raise questions and encourage her to think critically, challenge stereotypes, value other peoples' opinions and form her own.

2 Allow her to take the lead. Give her opportunities to make choices about things like after-school and family activities to help practise making good, healthy decisions — just be sure to stay close by to keep things safe.

3 Validate her experiences. If she has challenges with friends or teachers, for example, avoid remarks like "it will all be fine tomorrow." Respect how she feels, bring in different perspectives and help her find solutions by talking things through.

4 Help her develop a strong sense of connection to others. Encourage her to join teams and clubs to build social connections. Being online shouldn't be the primary form of social interaction.

5 Encourage her to take safe risks. You instinctively want to protect, but girls do need to learn to be accountable for decisions and learn from their mistakes.

6 Stay connected to your child's school. There are many ways to be involved even if you can't volunteer in the classroom. Besides a good curriculum, your daughter's school should celebrate diversity, encourage the value of charity, and create a safe, caring environment.

7 Promote extracurricular activities. From music and art, to sports, public speaking and more, embrace the things your daughter is good at and encourage her to go outside her comfort zone, too.

8 Model self-confidence in your own behaviour. Your daughter shouldn't hear you criticizing things like your appearance or your weight. Value your own accomplishments and lead by example.

Inspiring change

This year's theme of International Women's Day highlights the valuable contributions of women entrepreneurs to the Canadian economy.

Metro asked Arlene Dickinson, one of this country's best known independent marketing communications experts, for inspiration and advice to pass on to the next generation of female entrepreneurs.

- Know who you are and what core values you have that are non-negotiable, and don't be afraid to stand for those values against all public and personal resistance.

- Know that there is no one "right way," but there is always a wrong way.

- Surround yourself with people who give you good reason to pause and reflect on your opinion, and never be afraid to change your opinion because of what you have learned.

- Always fear people who don't speak the truth.

- If your gut says, "don't do it" then don't do it. It really is that simple. And if it says, "I'm scared but I feel I should try," then give it every ounce of effort you have and go for it.

As the world celebrates International Women's Day Saturday, let's salute these strides and support those who continue to challenge the status quo. BIKERIDERLONDON/SHUTTERSTOCK

Saluting trailblazers

For Metro

Is it your mom, sister or daughter you evoke when thinking about the great women in your life? Or perhaps you go to international trailblazers such as Hillary Clinton, Malala Yousafzai or Roberta Bondar?

Either way, the fact that you can easily call to mind influential females in all spheres shows how women have progressed in their quest for equality and freedom. As the world celebrates International Women's Day (IWD) Saturday, let's salute these strides and support those who continue to challenge the status quo.

Inspiring change is the theme of this year's IWD's campaign, which aims to honour women's accomplishments while reminding us that action is still needed to bring about true equality.

"The theme of inspiring change is powerful," said Leigh Naturkach, violence prevention program manager at the Canadian Women's Foundation, which works toward equality for women and girls. "It's meant to inspire us all to reflect on ourselves, our attitudes and our actions and also to reflect on and question long-held and outdated ways of thinking that are harmful."

While we see more women in politics, sports and space than ever, Naturkach said it's a sad reality that women are still not paid on par with their male colleagues and they are underrepresented in boardrooms, the military and government. In some parts of the world, they can't vote or drive and their access to basic human rights such as health care and education is restricted. Women everywhere shoulder the burden of violence.

IWD shines a spotlight on this imbalance.

"What's so hopeful is the progress women have achieved over the last hundred years," Naturkach said. "And there's the more recent explosion of awareness, advocacy and activism. Social media has been a huge galvanizer for the women's movement. It offers barrier-free access to different voices and an amazing opportunity to collaborate on issues affecting women and girls."

CIS Basketball.

Gee-Gees, Ravens are top seeds in men's national championship

The University of Ottawa Gee-Gees and Carleton Ravens couldn't have scripted it any better.

The two rival schools enter this weekend's CIS men's basketball championship in Ottawa as the top two seeds.

While the Ravens were ranked number one all season, they lost top billing after the University of Ottawa Gee-Gees handed them their first league loss in the Ontario University Association final last weekend.

The Gee-Gees, who were ranked second all season, head to the national championship as the top seed for the first time in the program's history.

The Gee-Gees finished the season with a 34-2 overall record against CIS competition, with both losses coming at the hands of the Ravens. Ottawa heads into the tournament with the top-ranked offence, averaging 96.4 points-per-game.

"We're not going in thinking we're the favourite," said Ottawa coach James Derouin. "I think until Carleton gets beat at the national championships they're still the favourite. We still have to prove we can get to a final."

Ottawa will open the tournament against the number eight ranked Saskatchewan Huskies Friday night.

Mindful of Marauders

"McMaster is very, very dangerous. They can beat us easily if we don't play well."

Carleton coach Dave Smart on facing No. 7 ranked McMaster in their opening game

Friday's quarter-final games

- No. 3 Alberta vs. No. 6 Saint Mary's, 12:30 p.m.
- No. 2 Carleton vs. No. 7 McMaster, 2:30 p.m.
- No. 4 Victoria vs. No. 5 McGill, 5:30 p.m.
- No. 1 Ottawa vs. No. 8 Saskatchewan, 8 p.m.

The Gee-Gees are coming off a bronze-medal finish in last year's tournament with 11 returning players. Meanwhile, not a single member of the Huskies has had the opportunity to play in the Final 8.

While the Gee-Gees may have top billing, the reigning three-time champion Ravens are still considered the team to beat having won nine of the past 11 championship banners.

Carleton will be looking for a record tenth title when it begins play Friday against the seventh-ranked McMaster Marauders. Once again the Ravens will be led by Philip Scrubb — who won his third straight CIS Player of the Year award earlier this week — Thomas Scrubb and veteran Tyson Hinz.

Carleton head coach Dave Smart said coming in as the number one or number two seed is of no importance to him. Smart knows many believe his is the team to beat, but he doesn't allow his players to look further ahead than the first game. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Glenn wants out of Ottawa

In December, Kevin Glenn was ecstatic about joining the Ottawa Redblacks. Now the veteran quarterback wants the CFL expansion squad to trade him elsewhere.

On Dec. 15, a jubilant Glenn was seen in a family video celebrating after being named a first-round pick by Ottawa in the CFL expansion draft. Following two productive seasons with the Calgary Stampeders, the 13-year veteran was looking forward to leading a first-year franchise and being able to call the Redblacks his team.

However, that sentiment changed Feb. 4 when Ottawa signed veteran Henry Burris to a lucrative multi-year contract and immediately named him its starter. Burris, 38, was the CFL's passing leader the last two years with Hamilton before being released after free-agent quarterback Zach Collaros joined the Tiger-Cats.

"I've asked to be traded and it dates back to when the actual situation happened," Glenn told The Canadian Press on Thursday in his first public comments regarding his situation with Ottawa. "I really don't want to be part of the situation that is in Ottawa . . . I've spoken to (head coach) Rick Campbell and (GM) Marcel Desjardins so they know."

Glenn said he initially asked to be released, but the Redblacks declined.

Ottawa GM Marcel Desjardins said he's working to accommodate Glenn.

Desjardins said if he can't work out a trade, it will be up to Glenn to decide whether to report to the Redblacks.

NHL

Devils' Kovalchuk penalty reduced

The NHL reduced its penalty against the New Jersey Devils on Thursday for signing Ilya Kovalchuk in 2010.

The Devils will keep the first-round draft pick they were scheduled to forfeit this year, and the league will reduce the $3 million fine assessed against the team for circumventing the NHL-NHLPA collective bargaining agreement.

The Devils recently applied to the league for reconsideration and relief from a portion of the original penalty, citing primarily changes in circumstances which, in the club's view, changed the appropriateness of the sanctions. Kovalchuk retired after last season and returned to Russia to play there. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

Don't be afraid to disagree with authority. You respect the fact that they outrank you but you also know that if you do as they say you will regret it. Aries is the first sign of the zodiac so put your needs first.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

You may be willing to change your plans to help someone out today but don't let them tell you that you are obliged to do so. Let them know this is a one-off situation.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

You may be annoyed that a loved one failed to consult you before taking a course of action that affects you, but don't let it show. Frankly, there are more important things you should be focusing on.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

The journey you have started on may be long and hard but you are determined to reach the end, and with Jupiter on your side again there is no doubt you will succeed. Do you believe that? You should.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

The planets urge you not to plan too far ahead because even routine matters are likely to change over the days, weeks and months to come. You also need to be flexible.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

It's possible to be too generous and at some point today you will realize that your sympathy for someone was misplaced. There is no point getting angry about it, but try not to make the same mistake twice.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

You have a tendency to fear the worst but with Jupiter moving in your favour again you will be visualizing all sorts of wonderful things. Good. What's in your mind's eye today will be reality tomorrow.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

Someone you meet over the next few days will inspire you creatively and maybe romantically too. Will this new liaison stand the test of time? There is no way of knowing but it will be fun finding out!

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

Someone will offer what sounds like good advice today but the planets warn they are thinking of their interests rather than yours. Listen to your inner voice.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

No matter how well you have planned things, there are sure to be hold-ups and disruptions today and over the weekend. Promise yourself that you won't get angry with people who move and think slowly.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

You are unsure whether to push ahead with a new plan or to hold back and see how things develop. Hopefully it will be the former. The longer you wait, the more likely it is others will get ahead of you.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

Someone you are fond of has made a silly mistake and feels bad about it. Give them an uplifting pep-talk. It's what they do next that counts.
